Hi,

Thanks for your willingness to help.

This web page has photos of how I reassembled my rear brake pedal.

http://www.dtashley.com/howtos/2010/04/rear_brake_pedal_2006_vt600c/

I hope it is visible in the photos that there is a washer between the pedal bracket and pedal, but no washer between the pedal and frame.

I hope this is right.

Could you let me know if the motorcycle you have looks the same?

There is no need to take photos (I hope the photos I provided prevent you from going to that much trouble).

Thanks sincerely, Dave Ashley

Dear gymj1369,

Hi,

I have an unusual request not related to a sale ...

I have the same model motorcycle as you are selling (with 24,000 miles on it).

Took apart and lubed my rear brake pedal yesterday, forgot where one of the washers go back. Dealership couldn't answer my question. I thought I'd look for someone who owns one at the moment.

May I send you a closeup digital photo of my rear brake pedal along with a description of what I'm looking for, and you could tell me if yours is the same? Everything is externally-visible (no disassembly involved).

Thanks, Dave Ashley, Marshall, Michigan.

It doesn't appear to have a washer between the frame and pedal. Here are a couple pictures of my assembly.

Hope this helps you.
